WM. S. VARE IS DENIED SEAT IN U. S. SENATE

VOTE ON HIS REJECTION WAS
58 TO 22 TODAY

REPUBLICAN LEADER ALLEGED
SPENDING $785,000 TO GAIN
SENATORIAL NOMINATION

PROBLEM OF WEALTH IN POLI-TICS HAD BEEN THOROUGH-LY DEBATED

Washington, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—William S. Vare, the Philadelphia republican leader, was denied a seat in the United States senate today because he spent $785,000 to get the Pennsylvania senatorial nomination in 1926. The vote was 58 to 22.

The Norris resolution was adopted by the senate, declaring the expenditure of such a large sum of money, together with charges of fraud, corrupted the credentials of the Pennsylvania senator-elect.

The seat he has never been able to occupy was thereby declared vacant. The preamble of the Norris resolution charged there were "numerous and various instances of fraud and corruption" in Vare's primary campaign. It contended the money expenditure represented a prima facie case contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the dignity and honor of the senate, dangerous to the perpetuity of a free government.

The charges of fraud were most inferential. Much was made of the fact that no votes were counted for Vare's opponent in many Philadelphia districts. It was contended also that the Pennsylvania practice under which candidates employ watchers at the polls was only another way of buying votes legally. Many irregularities concerning registration in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh also were developed but it was not agreed how widespread these irregularities were.

The resolve portion of the resolution merely adopted the report of the senate investigating committee and stated "that the said William S. Vare be, and he is hereby denied a seat in the United States senate."

Vare sat dejectedly in the first seat on the republican side of the chamber while the vote was taken. At his side sat his physician, Dr. John Shaw, with a worried expression, watching to see the effect of the balloting upon his patient.

Vare's ruddy face paled slightly as the "ayes" were announced one after the other in favor of the resolution which deprived him of his seat.

The senate scene was staged in all the official splendor of a great event. The galleries were filled with distinguished officials of government and their wives, beautifully gowned. In the first row of the senator's gallery was Mrs. Vare in a brown dress with light tan hat and beside her were their two daughters, Beatrice and Mrs. William Kipp. Nearby the family friend, Leopold Glass, municipal judge of Philadelphia.

In the opposite gallery reserved for "guests" of the senate, was William B. Wilson, Vare's defeated democratic opponent, and members of his family along with his attorney.

Thus ended the three-year-old fight which has cost Vare a substantial fortune and his health.

Immediately after the Norris' vote was announced, the senate voted 66 to 15 that Vare's election opponent, William B. Wilson, was not entitled to the seat.

Ten democrats and six republicans contended Wilson should get the seat. The democrats: Ashurst and Hayden, Arizona; McKellar, Tennessee; Barkley, Kentucky; Pittman, Nevada; Robinson, Arkansas; Sheppard, Texas, and Walsh and Wheeler, Montana; Thomas, Oklahoma. Republicans: Blaine and LaFollette, Wisconsin; McMaster, South Dakota; Norris, Nebraska; Thomas, Oklahoma, and Brookhart, Iowa.

After the first vote was announced Vare hobbled out of the chamber, bracing himself erect upon the arm of his physician and a cane.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, served notice in the senate today he will oppose seating in the senate any appointee of Governor Fisher, of Pennsylvania, to succeed Senator-elect Vare, who is "too close to the Grundy-Mellon machine."

"I want to say now," Nye shouted, "that the man appointed by Gov. Fisher to succeed Vare will need to be far removed from the Grundy-Mellon machine before I will vote to seat him. I am well aware that in denying the seat to Vare we are lending aid and comfort and opportunity to those equally guilty of the same offense. But such aid and comfort need be only temporary."

"We are equally justified to deny the seat to any man appointed by Gov. Fisher in whose campaign entered just as much of the same influence which we are now condemning."

"We cannot deny the seat to one part of the machine and not to the other, since both played the same game and played it equally well."

Nye's statement was taken as a direct challenge of reports that Gov. Fisher will name Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, to the senate.

HURRICANES IN ENGLAND TOOK A
TOLL OF 23 LIVES

London, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—Storms of hurricane intensity which swept the British Isles, the English channel and sections of the Atlantic ocean for nearly 24 hours abated somewhat today after taking a toll of 23 lives, many injured and heavy property damage.

The dead included 16 of the crew of the British steamship Frances Duncan, which foundered off the Irish coast near Waterford. Three fishermen were drowned when their fishing boat was smashed to bits on the coast near Skerries, Ireland. Four other victims were claimed by the storms on land.

Madrid, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—A violent storm demolished several buildings, damaged small vessels and injured a dozen persons near Madrid and other sections last night.

Eight persons were seriously injured in the vicinity of Madrid. Damages were estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WILL

STATE LAWS

ALABAMA'S LAW AFFECTING THE PURCHASES OF INTOXICANTS
IN SUCCESSFUL TEST

Washington, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—The federal government will not seek to take advantage of state laws which make buyers as well as sellers of liquor liable, Prohibition Commissioner Jas. M. Doran said today commenting on the successful test of Alabama's law affecting purchases of intoxicants.

Major liquor offenders apprehended by federal officers will continue to be tried under the Volstead act, Doran said.

Georgia has a law under which possession of liquor legally acquired previous to adoption of the eighteenth amendment has been held illegal. An appeal to the federal supreme court from this law proved unsuccessful.

Such laws, while they exceed the national prohibition act, are fully within the state's police powers, the supreme court has decided.

Encouraged by the Alabama decision, Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, prepared to ask the senate judiciary committee to act on his bill to incorporate the word "purchase" in the Volstead law along with the words "sale" and "possession."

MID-WESTERN MALES HAVE NOT GONE
PAJAMA CRAZED

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—Mid-western males, except for the young fellows, have not gone pajama-crazed. They sleep in night shirts—the kind you pull over your head and that flap at the knees.

Clerks in loop men's shops stood behind stacks of the old fashioned sleeping garments today and stoutly maintained almost all older men wear them.

"The older generation clings to night shirts out of habit," said one clerk. "They buy white, if they buy themselves. If the wife buys she selects something to match the bedroom color scheme, like green."

Passing men on a downtown street were asked what they sleep in.

"Pajamas," said the younger ones.

"None of your business," said the older ones, and that meant night shirts.

SAYS RELIGION ENTERING INTO GREATEST TRANSFORMA-TION OF HISTORY
By WALLACE G. WEST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 6.—A religion with "a purpose instead of a God" is proposed by A. Eustace Haydon, professor of comparative religion at the University of Chicago, in his book, "The Quest of the Ages," which has just been published by Harper's.

"Religion is entering into the greatest transformation in history," Haydon said in explaining his views to the United Press today. "Modern science has challenged faith in a personal God and present day industrialism has made old forms of life impossible."

"The old theory was that religion is a problem of man's relationship to God," he said. "The new definition is that it must be a quest for a completely satisfying life."

The professor declared that the concept of God was due to the belief of primitive man that he could not be happy during life and must wait for some message to lead him into heaven.

Now, he maintained, this belief is being swept away by new conditions. Man is beginning to realize that if intelligently managed the laws of the universe will let him attain a well-rounded life in this world by his own efforts. Therefore a Savior is not needed.

Haydon said he had no quarrel with fundamentalists. Where old theologies are still deep rooted, he would not interfere, but rather super-impose his vision of a well-ordered world.

"If the old religions cling to their altars they will die, while if they join in this new movement they will flourish," he said. "Religion always has been irrepressibly optimistic. I believe the churches will abandon their antiquated rituals and incidental theology."

He explained that he would not antagonize established sects.

"No Messiah is needed for the new religion," he continued. "We have learned to think for ourselves. No single person can lead us blindly to salvation. We are from Missouri and must find our own way."

Haydon said his ideas were similar to those of H. G. Wells, the British novelist. The leaders of the new movement will be business men, scientists and newspapermen, he declared.

CANNED MUSIC ON RADIO MUST BE SO ANNOUNCED

Washington, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—The Federal Radio commission today issued a general order requiring radio broadcasting stations to precede all "canned" musical programs with the announcement they are mechanical reproductions rather than the actual recitals of artists. Stations may not broadcast mechanical music for more than 15 minutes without announcing its character and the call letters of the station, the commission ordered.

WAR MAY COME AGAIN IN LIFETIME
OF MEN NOW 50

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—War likely will come again within the lifetime of men now 50, Samuel Insull said in a speech here in which he struck at pacifists. The multimillionaire utilities magnate said the only way the United States can be prepared for war, since the people will not support a large standing army, is through creation of a citizens army ready for emergencies.

MEXICO SAVED BY COAST

New York, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—While severe gales whipped the British Isles today, numerous lives had been saved in American waters through the efforts of sailors and coast guards.

The liner Republic of the U. S. Lines rescued the captain and crew of 10 of the schooner Gander Deal, which was leaking and drifting helplessly 150 miles off the coast of Newfoundland with her rudder gone.

The crew of five vessels which were disabled by high winds on the Gulf of Mexico were saved by coast guard patrol boats. One of the ships, the two-masted schooner Mystery, had been tossed about since last Friday.

Off the Massachusetts coast, two radio operators were picked up after drifting near Cape Ann for nearly 24 hours. They were carried out to sea when the motor of the launch in which they were on their way to the radio station on Thatcher's Island failed.

Three fishing vessels were still missing today from St. John's, Newfoundland, victims of a hurricane last week-end.

DRUGSTORE NEAR WRECKED

Munhall, Pa., Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—While investigators were digging in the ruins of the Munhall postoffice today, another explosion next door in the basement of a drug store, rocked the town for the second time within 24 hours and injured eight persons.

Repairmen had just completed work on the Star drug store damaged in yesterday's explosion when the blast in the basements blew out the windows and damaged the interior.

Harry Weinberger, proprietor of the store, and William J. Gallagher, heroes in yesterday's blast, were given first aid treatment at the scene while John Gerchak, of Braddock, and Leo Patterson, Homestead Park, were taken to Homestead hospital.

The injured men were said to have been in the basement at the time of the explosion. An excited crowd filled the street following the detonation.

The blast was not as severe as yesterday's explosion in the postoffice which resulted in the death of five persons and injuries to more than 50.

FY THEY HAD BEEN INMATES

St. Paul, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—A wide-spread investigation of alleged organized vice in St. Paul reached the court room stage today when the trial of Mohamet Nackley, proprietor of the Superior Hotel, on charges of having accepted the illegal earnings of women, opened in district court.

Two 17-year-old girls testified they had been inmates of the establishment and that Nackley, also known as "Dr. Muckley," received part of their illicit earnings in the form of room rent.

Police announced 11 women are held as witnesses against the proprietors of nine hotels here. Three of the witnesses are from Red Wing, St. Cloud and Brainerd, respectively.

One of the 17-year-old witnesses called to the stand today definitely told the prosecuting attorney she had been an inmate of seven disreputable hotels and rooming houses here in the past two years, or since she was 15 years old.

The girls were brought to the court room from a home for incorrigibles. They gave Brainerd and Red Wing as their homes.

A third woman, who gave her age as 28, said she came here from St. Cloud several years ago and had piled an illicit trade ever since.

School Authorities Are Anxious That No School Damage Be Tolerated

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton, the city police department and Brainerd school authorities were busy today investigating damage done to school property, city property and some personal property by Brainerd boys. Part of the damage was done at Halloween and part of it is more recent.

The city attorney questioned over 20 people this morning in connection with the case. Fifteen boys, mostly Brainerd high school students, were among those questioned. At the high school in the city hall and in the old court house, four chairs have been broken, three windows smashed, plumbing fixtures broken and other damage done. Street lights in Gregory park were broken and much damage done to school and personal property on Halloween night.

The school authorities were anxious that this matter be probed to the bottom as they wish to have no property damage in schools tolerated, especially when they are about to enter a new half-a-million dollar school building.

The actual damage done in dollars and cents has not been great but the city and school authorities will bend every effort to show the offenders this sort of thing will not be allowed.

Some of the boys questioned admitted certain destruction of the school property, the lights at Gregory park and some private property.

The investigation of the matter will continue and the city and school authorities will determine what course shall be taken after the investigation is completed.

Although weakened from the operation, Maxwell walked to his office from the hospital and wrote his own story. He did not know the salesman.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—A terrific explosion, which police said was caused by the most powerful dynamite bomb ever exploded in Chicago, roared through a big South Side store and apartment building last night, injuring 16 persons, one possibly fatally, and doing $50,000 damage.

Police blamed labor racketeers for the blast but were unable to name the "racket" since tenants of a drug store, a cleaning and dyeing establishment or a barber shop might have been the intended victims of the terrorists.

Frank Marcello, 11-year-old son of Tony Marcello, the barber, had his left leg broken, his chest and face badly cut and was injured internally. He was in a critical condition today at People's hospital. Physicians said he would lose the sight of one eye, if he recovered.

SEEK FOR CLUES

FINGER PRINTS SECURED OF BANDITS WHO ROBBED THE BELLE PLAINE BANK

Belle Plaine, Minn., Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—Every possible means of crime detection was employed today to trace two dapper young bandits who Thursday held up three employees and robbed the First National Bank here of $5,997 in cash.

Joseph Weckman, Scott county sheriff, was given the co-operation of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, the Minnesota highway patrol, authorities of adjoining counties and police forces of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Shakopee, Jordan and other nearby towns.

Operatives of the criminal apprehension bureau arrived at the scene of the crime within two hours after the robbery and secured finger prints of the bandits. Twin City police today sent photographs of bandit suspects here to be viewed by the hold-up victims.

Search for the robbers was frustrated Thursday by the fact that no witnesses here saw the automobile in which they supposedly escaped. The highway between here and Minneapolis was guarded but no arrests were made.

The three employees who faced the bandits were E. O. Peterson, cashier; F. H. Grosser, assistant cashier, and Miss Geduld Hahn, bookkeeper. They first were forced to lie on the floor and were locked in the vault when the robbers escaped.

'MODEL HUSBAND'
CHOKED CHICAGO
STENOG. TO DEATH

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—A "model husband" whose defense against a charge of choking a pretty stenographer to death was the insanity that comes from a whisky flask, must die in the electric chair, by the verdict of a Chicago jury.

John Preston, 32-year-old interior decorator, was found guilty of strangling Miss Agnes Johnston, 26, to death after assaulting her on a roadside near West Chicago on Oct. 13. A jury deliberated an hour and a half before returning its verdict, which carried the death penalty.

Preston, handsome and athletic, paid as he heard himself consigned to death but otherwise remained calm.

FOR MONTHS HAS BEEN OBJECT OF VARIOUS REVOLTS

DIFFICULT TO MAINTAIN NA-TIONALIST ARMY ON SO MANY FRONTS

BREAK WITH SOVIET OVER THE CHINESE EASTERN RAILWAY
ADDED TO TROUBLES

Tokio, Dec. 6.—A Nippon Demyo agency dispatch from Nanking today said that General Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the nationalist government of China, had notified the executive council of the government that he was resigning.

As chairman of the executive council of the nationalist government of China, Chiang Kai-Shek is 42 years old and was the youngest man ever to hold such a responsibility in China. He was generalissimo of the nationalist armies and led the victorious drive against the northern forces at Peking in 1928.

He is a disciple of Sun Yat-Sen, attended school in Moscow and later studied in Japan after the close of the Russo-Japanese war. In 1927 he put aside old fashioned wives and married Mayling Soong, who was educated in America and is a sister of the minister of finance. He maintained his modern ideas in his administration even to the wearing of the snappy, modern western uniform.

For months he had been the object of various rebellions against which he contended with increasing difficulty due to the heavy expense of keeping his armies on several fronts in the different provinces. The break with the Soviet government last July when China seized the Chinese Eastern railway, ousting Russian managers who had operated with Chinese managers under the agreement for joint control in 1924, added to the difficulties of his regime.

Shanghai, Dec. 6.—Rebellion of troops outside of Pukow, across the Yangtze river from Nanking, the seat of the Chinese central government, has served as the spark that has fanned similar revolts along the river towns as far as Ichang, 800 miles away.

The situation along the river from Hankow to Ichang, a distance of approximately 400 miles, was reported serious, and two British gunboats of the Yangtze patrol have been fired upon.

Despite reports that 30,000 rebels have been disarmed, the Pukow revolt has spread rapidly.

Editor Dispatch:

I read with considerable interest your editorial respecting a municipal skating rink. I think you struck the right note and you are assured that the matter will have consideration at the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. I believe that in the meantime it would be well that those citizens who are interested voice their thought and suggestions through the columns of your paper. In that manner the Chamber will have the benefit of everyone's ideas. It should be borne in mind that the immediate question is the devising of means to establish and maintain the so-called court house rink for use this winter.

Yours truly,
C. A. RYAN,
Pres. Chamber of Commerce.

PAST NOBLE GRANDS IN HOLIDAY PARTY

Entertainment at Christmas Party at Home of Mrs. J. C. Clausen Thursday Afternoon

The Past Noble Grands of the Florence Rebekah lodge held their Christmas party yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Clausen, 411 North Third street. Guessing games formed the entertainment for the afternoon.

The house had been beautifully decorated in the Christmas colors of red and green with tinsel and also carrying out the lodge colors of green and pink. The shades had been drawn at the windows and the decorated electric lights and tall lighted candles furnishing the light lent a Christmas touch.

At 4:30 o'clock a luncheon was served, and as each found their place at the table they answered roll call by reading a Christmas verse. Tall red lighted candles and a large bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums as a centerpiece, formed the table decorations at which covers were laid for 16.

Santa Claus had not forgotten his guests, and as each left the dining room, they were presented with a Christmas gift from him.

The committee in charge of the Christmas party were Mrs. J. C. Clausen, Mrs. Wallace McCulloch and Mrs. C. B. Peterson.

Mrs. Hilliard of Ironton was the only out of town guest.

AN ECONOMICAL DOMESTIC FUEL WHICH BANKS BETTER AND HOLDS HEAT LONGER—

FORD PEA COKE

Product of the Ford Motor Company

People who are using Ford Pea Coke find that it offers unusual economy. It sells at less per ton than any other size. And the small size of the lumps makes it easier to control and bank, because the denser body of fuel does not permit air to penetrate so readily. For the same reason, it holds fire and heat longer.

Ford Pea Coke is made by the Ford Motor Company, from high-quality coal especially picked for its coking qualities. The mines are Ford owned and operated, and the rigid manufacturing standards so characteristic of this company assure uniform quality.

All the elements which make smoke and soot have been eliminated in Ford Pea Coke, just as they are in the larger sizes. Practically all clean heat—very little ash. Requires a minimum of attention. This coke should be burned with a layer of ashes over the grate. If you will do this you won't lose good fuel through the grate and you will not have clinkers.

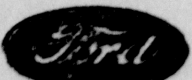

Learn the economy of this special domestic fuel. Phone today for a binful of Ford Pea Coke, and get more clean heat for your money.

"It made me think just what to get him for Christmas," Mabel said

"Pop got awful sore last night 'cause he had to get up twice and chase downstairs to answer the telephone and once he had to hide in the closet when Mabel and her boy friend came in. After he went to the office Mabel said, I'm glad father had such a time with the telephone last night 'cause it made me think just what to get him for Christmas. What's that, said Mom. An extension telephone by the side of his bed. He'll just be tickled half to death with it, said Mabel. If it's O. K. with you I'll call up and order one. Mom said it sounded fine to her so we're going to have a big surprise for Pop's Christmas."

Brainerd Musical Club Public Spirited

THE Brainerd Musical club, one of the largest federated clubs in the state, has this year an out-of-town membership of over 50 women.

The new president, Mrs. E. J. Quinn, has appointed the ex-presidents of the club as a courtesy committee. This committee has recently planned that each Saturday on which the club meets, a luncheon shall be served. They have arranged this as an opportunity for the out-of-town members to become better acquainted and to talk over matters in which they are mutually interested.

The next meeting of the club will be on Saturday, December 14, and the luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock at the Ransford hotel.

The Musical club is to be commended for its public spirit and for showing that charm and camaraderie which does so much to make the out-of-town member acquainted with club and city.

No Community Trees on Trunk Highways

THE State Highway department is again receiving requests for permits to erect community Christmas trees in the center of streets which are designated as trunk highways. All such requests will be refused, solely on the ground of public safety, according to a bulletin from the department.

In the early days of the trunk highway system, a number of such requests were granted, but with the steadily increasing traffic this practice has been found entirely too dangerous. With a confusion of headlights, street lights and lights on the tree, persons walking around the tree at night are difficult to see, and likely to be injured. Collisions of cars are also numerous where trees are placed at a busy intersection. It is felt that creating such a hazard is not in keeping with the Christmas spirit.

Nearly every city or village has a public park or some other street more suitable than the trunk highway as a place for the Christmas tree.

Fit Music to Your Dinner

MAYBE it had not occurred to the diner in general, but if you suffered after-effects from that Thanksgiving dinner, perhaps it was because your radio tuned in on jazz when a little symphony was the correct thing.

Not only has music charms to soothe the fiercest beast, according to a survey by a Chicago concern, but it also has powers to soothe the fiercest pangs of hunger. The music with meals has a great deal to do with enjoyment of the meal, the report following the survey said.

For instance, at hotels slow music is the order for the dinner, when slow eating is the thing. Jazz calls for tall cool drinks and light desserts but dreamy waltz music brings out orders for table d'hôte meals. Oriental music calls for chop suey, chow mein and so on.

That is why you find music in so many large hotels and restaurants. It stimulates the appetite and incidentally affects one's pocketbook because the expenditures grow larger. Of course, there are some people who manage to restrain the sympathetic movement engendered by music and the digestive apparatus and for them there has been evolved the cover charge.

JANUARY 16, 17, 18 and 19 were the dates recently set by the Kandiyohi County Poultry association for the annual county poultry show at Willmar. Special efforts will be taken to encourage entries by boys and girls, a junior department having been created for that purpose.

THE St. Louis County Poultry show will be held at Virginia December 20 to 23, as announced by the St. Louis County Agricultural Agent. Premiums amounting to more than $600 are expected to attract approximately 100 exhibitors and 1,000 birds to the show.

MAJOR LEAGUE OWNERSHIP OF MINOR CLUBS ASSAILED

COMMISSIONER LANDIS GIVES PRONOUNCEMENT

SPEAKS AT BANQUET OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUES

SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE TO GET BACK TO INDIVIDUAL OWNERSHIP OF MINORS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 6.—Major league ownership of minor league clubs was assailed by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis at the annual banquet of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues here last night.

Charging that both parties were equally responsible, Judge Landis said that unless something was done to get back to individual ownership of minor league clubs, the entire baseball organization would be endangered.

Although it has long been known that Judge Landis was opposed to major league ownership of minor league clubs, last night's speech was the first public denouncement of that farm system by the baseball commissioners.

"There is more activity along this line now than at any time in the eight years I have been connected with professional baseball," said Landis.

"Already the seeds of disintegration have begun to spring into life. One day the whole organization is going to fall down unless this condition is soon remedied."

Judge Landis cited the case of a Class "B" league, thought to be the Three-Eye group, which has lost more than 200,000 in attendance in the past five years, dropping from an aggregate of 532,000 to 304,000. He said he believed major league ownership was largely responsible for this drop.

"I have heard it said that the major leagues were entirely responsible for this condition," said Judge Landis, "but I have heard many men at this minor league meeting say that they came here principally looking for a major league club to take over their team. I think both parties are equally to blame."

"The main point is: How are the members of this organization going to remedy that problem and save baseball? I refer particularly to the little fellows, the Class "B," "C" and "D" leagues which are facing their doom under existing conditions.

"I am convinced that I am right when I say that we ought to return to the system of one ball club under the control of one interest only. How can you expect a man to go out and throw his hat into the air and root for a team when he knows that the team is owned by someone 1,000 miles away and that he is cheering and backing their interests, and not those of his own community? We ought to get back to a situation where a man can think about the town's club as his own and there is the old-time traditional rivalry between the neighboring towns."

Judge Landis said that he was going to "keep hammering at this thing until something was done about it."

Minor league owners and officials generally reacted favorably to Judge Landis' remarks. After the speech they gathered in the hotel lobby and agreed almost unanimously that "the judge is right," but seemed to be perplexed about where to start in to correct the situation.

The St. Louis Cardinals, generally conceded to be the originator of the farm system on a large scale, did not have a representative at the banquet. Branch Rickey, master mind behind the Cardinals' large chain, was absent. The Cardinals last season controlled no less than half a dozen minor league clubs, including Rochester, Danville, Ill., Fort Wayne, Ind., Shawnee, Okla., and Scottsdale, Pa.

Practically every major league club has at least one minor league farm, and many of them have several.

Rumors that the Three-Eye League would disband for next season were denied today by President L. J. Wylie, of Decatur, Ill., who said that the league would function with the same clubs as last year.

St. Paul bought Second Baseman Jack Saltzgaver from the Oklahoma City Western League club for a sum said to be $10,000, and sold Second Baseman Ry Maorehart to Columbus.

First Baseman William Kelly was sold outright to Porth Worth by the Beaumont, Texas League club.

Jack Smith, former National League outfielder who finished the season with Baltimore, signed a two-year contract with Kansas City.

Toronto bought Pitcher A. A. (Buzz) Phillips outright from Fort Worth.

TWO AMERICANS AND FRENCHMAN TO JUDGE FIGHT

COMPROMISE MADE WHEN PRINCIPALS FAIL TO AGREE ON REFEREE

AMERICAN IS SLIGHT FAVORITE AT PARIS TO WIN OVER THE ITALIAN HEAVYWEIGHT

Paris, Dec. 6.—(U.P.)—Three judges, two Americans and a Frenchman, will decide the winner of tonight's bout between W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., and Primo Carnera, Italy's giant heavyweight. This compromise arrangement was made when Stribling and Carnera failed to agree on a referee.

Promoter Jeff Dickson named Rene Scheuman, French referee who officiated Stribling's recent bout with Maurice Grisselle, and the Americans, Gaston Winston and "Sparrow" Robertson, boxing expert of the Paris Herald, as judges.

Despite Carnera's victory over Stribling on a foul in the fourth round of their recent bout at London, the American was a slight favorite to win tonight's bout. In the previous bout Stribling outboxed Carnera by a wide margin until the referee disqualified him for a low blow which sent the Italian to the floor.

Junior members are enjoying a new experience at the Y. M. C. A. these days. After school each day, members of the high school basketball team, while waiting for the new high school, are using the "Y" gym to keep in training, not for basket shooting in the close quarters but exercising to Carroll Guin supervises the hour for the younger members. No coaching instruction is given. And the hour usually ends with a game between chosen teams.

"The Masked Hostess" by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXVI

CONNOISSEUR in champagne would have been made profoundly unhappy at the manner in which the first of that which Monty had brought was carried in and broached and served with cracked ice in it because time was lacking to chill it according to ritual.

There were two score of cases on his truck, and as a couple of Stefano's servants carried the first one in, Monty halted them and commanded them to produce a punch bowl and a block of ice. He sent a third man for a hatchet and chisel, and when these had been supplied forced the lid off the case where it lay on the floor, and with the edge of the hatchet knocked the head off the first bottle he drew out after tossing its straw jacket toward the ceiling.

He was standing pouring, a bottle in either hand, as Nathalie appeared coming down the main staircase in shimmering green. He set one bottle down, filled a high goblet from the other and added some ice, and stood holding it before her as she reached the bottom step of the staircase.

She lifted the goblet to her lips and drained it before she brought it down. His seasoned drinker's ear was quick to catch the rattle of its rim against her teeth and his eye, profoundly practiced in all that pertained to alcohol and its devotees, noted the agitation of her hand as she clutched the goblet's stem.

"Needed that one, didn't you Sonora? As you are, while I run 'n pour you 'nother one."

She had "needed it" as Monty had said in the consecrated expression of drinkers, but not because, as he imagined and was convinced, she had looked into the depths of too many crimson cups the night before.

It had been welcome and she had drunk it eagerly, because as she reached the bottom step of the stairs she had been faint with fright at a happening which had occurred just as she was leaving her suite of rooms to come down, and the commotion of which had been lost to hearing below in the noise of motor horns raised when the drivers coming in behind Monty's loaded truck discovered the nature of the cargo it contained.

She had been standing before her mirror and facing her dressing table, dressed to go downstairs, but with her mask off and looking at her image in the glass while she added the last of the dead white powder she always wore, and was about to color her lips with her heavy rouge.

The window at back of her was open and the heavy screen of fir branches which grew close up to it stirring pleasantly in the night wind. Then suddenly she noticed the reflection of them in her oval of mirror, and went cold and horrified as a hand reached forth from among them and touched the sill of the window, but did not quite grasp it.

Nathalie was the child of a sportsman, and had valor. She did not cry out nor move. But lowering her hands slowly to the shallow upper drawer of her dressing stand, kept her eyes toward her mirror while she opened the drawer and felt for the revolver which Stefano had given her. She always kept it there. When her right hand found it and gripped it, she wheeled where she was like a flash, and shot toward the window point blank.

She knew that she had not hit whoever had been trying to enter the room when there was neither cry from the tree nor the crash of a body falling. But she knew too that whoever was in the tree was descending from it as she heard him scramble downward hastily from branch to branch. Her car caught the thud of his feet on the ground as he jumped to it from half way down the tree. She heard him run a few steps and then slow to a walk. A moment afterward she heard the slam of a car door and then the car go out of the grounds.

As Monty brought her a second deep draught of champagne and she drank a little of it off and then slowly sipped the rest, she grew steadier and calmer and decided that she would not alarm the house, but that after the daylight breakfast which always concluded each night's merrymaking, she would tell Stefano what had happened and arrange with him some plan by which it would be possible for her to sleep elsewhere and be in the house only when he was and it was crowded with guests.

She sent for her maid and going back upstairs with her had the draw the shutters and look all the windows of her suite of rooms. Shutting and locking the steel door which guarded them after her, she came down to the main floor again and was at once seized by one of a group of several dancing men at the base of the stairs.

As he whirled her in and around the dancing floor she could see that Monty Delaine's plenteous bestowal of champagne would lift the spirits of the gathering to a dizzy peak in fast order and that before the morning was very old would almost certainly effect its inevitable casualty list. It was not nearly one o'clock yet but laughter was high everywhere and rising higher. A girl danced by with Stefano and Nathalie recognized her as Sylvia Swayne.

She had not known her the night before in her Moroccan dress but now as she saw her in an ordinary dancing frock—it was an exquisite one—she was rejoiced that she was in the house for they were affectionate friends. If no better plan came to her mind as to where she would stay by daytime so as not to have to sleep in the house she would confide in Sylvia, she determined, just before Sylvia left for home.

It gave her a sense of safety to have her cousin so close at hand and she watched the girl laughing up at Stefano for she had heard plenty of gossip, since she came to The Firs, about her aunt's intention to manage a marriage between her daughter and the handsome South American.

Then jealousy touched her as they came into her vision again, and there flashed back to her—her mind had been full of it all day but the fright of the man in the fir tree had obscured it for a space—that by morning Stefano was to come to her and put in words his wordless avowal of love when he folded her in his arms two nights before. She looked at him and Sylvia again wondering if there had been, or still might be, any foundation to the talk about them, or if their evident pleasure in being and dancing together was no more than kindly friendliness.

Then she heard Sylvia, who had danced out of her vista of view and had then come close behind her, say to Stefano while Stefano laughed:

"And so, Stef, now that you're never going to marry me because Monty is—"

A girl screamed at Sylvia from half across the room.

"Sylvia—let me into the secret. Wherever on earth did Monty get hold of all the money to buy all this champagne?"

"Yes, where?—cried the youth who was her partner. "He sold me the last pony he had a week ago. Had to have the money that day. And now he's the boy millionaire."

"Don't ask me—ask Monty," Sylvia laughed back. "Here comes the cheerful lunatic now."

Monty came ambling across the floor, a champagne cooler in one hand and a bubbling bottle in the other:

"Oh, you, Stefano," he called out when he spotted his host. "Drop my girl and come outside 'th me. Got 't talk 't'you about important matter business. Head clear as a bell now but won't be very long. Arms 'f Morpheus twined around my neck right now."

"I'm behind you Stef," he mumbled as Stefano preceded him to the quiet of a porch.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

THE COUNTY'S BEST POULTRY SHOW ENDS

List of Prize Winners at Show Includes Many Real Champions

QUALITY EXHIBITS AT SHOW

Plans Are Already Underway for Bigger Poultry Show Next Year

Crow Wing county's best poultry show closed last night and exhibitors were busy this morning taking their prize winners back to their flocks. The show was not the largest the county has ever had but the quality of the exhibits has never been equalled in county history.

Plans for the show next year are already underway and the prospects for next year's show are very bright. As one poultry fancier said, Brainerd is better situated for a good poultry show than almost any other community in the state of Minnesota.

P. E. Schwab, flock supervisor of the Brainerd Hatchery, was very much pleased with this year's show but he feels that more amateur exhibitors should take an interest in the event. "Nothing would please me more than to see a good exhibit from the county 4-H clubs next year," he said.

"Every flock that I have seen in this vicinity seems to have members that would win in any 'hot' poultry competition," Mr. Schwab continued.

A prize list of the exhibitors at the show follows:

L. B. Koering of Crow Wing, Buff Orpingtons, 1 cockerel, 5 pullets, 2nd young pen.

SUMMER RESORT

BURNS TO GROUND

Resort Belonging to Charles E. Fesler of Mitchell Lake is Complete Loss

The modern residence and summer resort belonging to Charles E. Fesler of Mitchell lake, 50 miles north of Brainerd, burned completely to the ground Tuesday evening. The cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. and Mrs. Fesler came to Minnesota not long ago from Chicago.

The Feslers had been in Brainerd Tuesday evening as dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Midgely at the Ransford hotel. They were greeted by flames when they opened the door on their return home. They summoned the neighbors, but the entire structure was doomed and very few of the belongings saved. With the help of the neighbors they were able to save the other buildings.

The resort was valued at between $4,000 and $5,000. It is not known whether or not they carried insurance on the building.

NATIONAL TEA CO. OPENING TOMORROW

Fine Food Market to be Located at 720 Laurel Street in New Building

30TH ANNIVERSARY SALE
Company is Operating Over 1,700 Stores, Employs Over 12,000 People

One of the finest food markets in the northwest, the new National Tea Co. store, will have its grand opening here tomorrow at 720 Laurel street. A complete line of groceries, fresh fruits, government inspected meats will be offered for sale. All fixtures in the building are completely new, and a complete new line of groceries throughout has been stocked.

The National Tea Company will also celebrate its 30th anniversary sale at the grand opening. The sale will continue during the next week. As present the company is operating more than 1,700 stores in the United States and more than 12,000 men and women are employed. This large purchasing power, through the large number of stores, coupled with careful operating economy will enable the firm to sell the highest grade food products at every day low prices, one of the company officials told the Dispatch this afternoon.

The National Tea Co. store next to the Lyceum theatre on Laurel street will continue to operate as usual with Mrs. P. E. Rowell as manager.

P. E. Rowell, former railroad man, will be manager at the new store which is located just west of the Montgomery Ward and Co. store at Laurel street. Company officials here for the grand opening included A.

Neilson of Minneapolis, sales manager of the company, and James C. Travis, of Minneapolis, district manager.

A. L. Johnson of Minneapolis, supervisor of the meat markets in National Tea Co. stores will also be in attendance at the grand opening. Conrad Larson of Brainerd will be in charge of the meat department and only government inspected meats will be sold.

The meat department is located on the east side of the building and is clean, white and very attractive. In fact the entire store may be said to be well lighted, very clean, and attractively furnished.

The building itself has just been completed and is a part of a building program of Con O'Brien during the past season. The Montgomery Ward store just east of the National Tea's new location was a part of this program. The other half of the new building occupied by the National Tea Company was recently opened by the Fashionette, a lady's fashion store, owned and operated by the Kelley-Brown company.

DANGER LIES IN REDUCING DIETS

Unless They Have Bulk, Constipation is Inevitable

Today thousands of young women and girls are wondering why they are so miserable as they diet to reduce.

The trouble is that many of the new diets lack roughage which is necessary to clean the intestinal system. The symptoms are headaches, "gone" feelings and bad complexions. If allowed to continue constipation with its evils occurs.

By including Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet, you keep fit as you take off weight because you prevent constipation.

ALL-BRAN does not add fat to the body. It just sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. No pills nor drugs can play the part of ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet. Their dose has to be constantly increased and harmful results often follow.

You will like the appetizing, nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Eat it in soups. On salads. Soaked in orange, prune or fruit juice. As a cereal with milk or cream. Delicious with honey added. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Sold by all grocers.

Clara Wagner
Officiating

The last rites for Joseph Prushek, one of the oldest farmers in Crow Wing county, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Crosby Methodist church. Rev. Clara Wagner, pastor officiating. Interment will be made in Lakewood cemetery. The pallbearers will be George Adock, Gust Nord, J. W. Huff, Christ Olander, Joe Meyer, and Sam Buchite.

Mr. Prushek, passed away at his home in Perry Lake township, ten miles north of Crosby, at 5 o'clock on Tuesday evening, December 3, 1929, cause of death being heart disease from which he had been a sufferer the past three weeks, although being up and around at times it was not thought the end would come so suddenly.

Mr. Prushek was born in Bohemia, January 18, 1858, and was at the time of his death 71 years, 10 months and 16 days old. He came to America when a young man and settled in Cedar Rapids, Ia., where he was united in marriage 45 years ago. Nineteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. Prushek and family moved to Minnesota and came to Crow Wing county, where they purchased their old farm of 120 acres where they have continually lived since.

During his residence here he had held various offices of trust, and was a member of the Bohemian society at Cedar Rapids.

Mr. Prushek was a good and loving husband and father, and will be missed by all in his neighborhood where he has lived so long.

Mr. Prushek is survived by three sons, who are, Joseph and Adolph of Perry Lake, and Emil, of Chicago, who with their mother, Mrs. Prushek, mourn the loss of their father and husband; and one sister living, is in Cedar Rapids, Ia.

4 OF GREATEST GOLFERS MEET IN SEMI-FINALS

LARGE GALLEY AT LINKS OF HILLCREST COUNTRY CLUB
AT LOS ANGELES

LEO DIEGEL AND WALTER HAG-EN IN BATTLE FOR SUPREMACY

Los Angeles, Dec. 6. — (UP) — The largest crowd of spectators to turn out so far during the National Professional Golf Tournament was on hand at the links of the Hillcrest Country Club here today when four of the country's greatest golfers met in the semi-final round for the championship.

Leo Diegel, present champion, and Walter Hagen, from whom the Agua Caliente golfer took the crown at Baltimore a year ago, resumed their ancient battle for supremacy, each in top form and determined to get into the final round with its promise of gold and glory.

Johnny Farrell, national open champion, who came from behind to defeat Craig Wood and win his way into the semi-finals, faced Al Watrous of Detroit in the other match. Confronted with the probability of being eliminated from the tournament, Farrell put all his power and wizardry into the game to win. On the last nine and extra winning hole, he had six pars and four birdies.

Hagen eliminated Tony Manero of New York, 6 to 5, playing a cool and cautious game, while Diegel with a three-hole advantage gained in the morning, ended his match with Gene Sarazen on the thirty-fourth green, 3 to 2.

Watrous eased into the semi-final picture by defeating Al Espinosa two up, staging a comeback in the afternoon after being one down at the end of the morning round.

Newspapermen Get No Glory For Cop Work

Newspapermen seldom receive the glory they deserve! That reporters and editors are in many instances responsible for clearing up crime mysteries which have baffled the police is a fact seldom realized by the public. News is the prime requisite of a newspaper. If a publication cannot furnish readers with the latest on timely and current topics, it will soon go the way of all flesh.

The typical reporter, though not claiming to be a detective, possesses the uncanny ability of being able to ferret out elusive and important points that lead to the unraveling of some of the most puzzling mysteries. He will go to any limit in order to secure information, often exposing himself to the most extreme danger in so doing.

Grant Withers, featured player of Warner Bros' production, "In the Headlines," showing at the Lyceum

Saturday only, demonstrates in an amusing way—with the help of dainty Marian Nixon—how two reporters may do a double-header in solving a double murder.

SENATOR BROOKHART WANTS TO ABOLISH FARM LOAN BOARD

Washington, Dec. 6.—(UP)—Declaring the present management of the farm loan board "almost ceased to function as to additional loans," Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, introduced a bill today to abolish the board and transfer its duties to the federal farm bank.
